Feminine charm with substance

The Swiss made Hamilton Jazzmaster Lady Auto is highly sophisticated inside and out, equipping the wearer to juggle her time efficiently and elegantly. Its heart and soul, a finely crafted automatic movement, is visible through the case back, confidently confirming that technology and femininity go harmoniously hand in hand in the twenty-first century. The watch's form adds a further chapter to the story of design fascination. A round face flows into an oval-shaped case form, while teardrop-shaped lugs and indices tease the eye. The modern materials and lines work together to create a timepiece that clearly demonstrates a deep-set Hamilton belief that feminine charm has substance.

Tailored talking points

The Hamilton Jazzmaster Lady Auto comes in a variety of interpretations, each one with its own distinctive identity. Vying for the title of leading lady is a model with a mother of pearl dial, punctuated with 12 diamonds feeding the elongated teardrops that mark the hours. This is finished off with a classical, five-row stainless steel bracelet. Another one satisfies the strong bi-color fashion trend, and a rose PVD version brings dreamy, feminine softness. A versatile and highly practical attachment concept is the binding signature of the Hamilton brand's proven empathy with varying female moods and tastes. An easy click spring bar facilitates the exchange of the jewelry-style metal bracelets for a white leather strap to redefine feminine curves - of the wrist at least.
